

Water Supply Versus Demand

Most Precipitation Falls in Northern California

But Much of People's Water Use Occurs in Southern and Central California

Water Use In Millions of Acre Feet

So an extensive system of canals has been developed to transport water across the state.

Map created by California Department of Water Resources using PRISM (prism.oregonstate.edu).